

Women on Boards: Value All Around

Internationally, there is a call for board diversity to avoid group-think and to respond to stakeholder concerns. There is no doubt that women on board is an important aspect of overall make-up of a diverse board. In the context, measured gender considerations are required by business to address the gender imbalance – as part of the overall considerations relating to board diversity. This seminar brings together gender leaders and champions to share learnings on and represents a collaboration between The Hong Kong Institute of Chartered Secretaries (HKICS), the Thought Leadership Committee of The Chartered Governance Institute and Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer LLP:

- The business case on how women add value all around
- HKEX's journey and report card for HSI/other companies
- The comparative analysis with Asian/international financial centres
- The international calls – from proxy advisers the voluntary efforts like the 30% Club
- The facilitative role of the company secretary/governance professionals
